Life in Laminate

{ CREATIVE INSPIRATIONS free FROM HOBBY LOBBY. }

Hi, Life!

Say hello to laminate, a fabric that can move in and make itself at home. Here's why: durability and convenience. It wears slowly, so it'll hang tough in a busy household. And you can spot clean it with a damp cloth—so no washing machine required.

Cold Snap

Here's a project that plays it crazy-cool: laminate fridge liners! There's no sewing here—just measure, cut and congratulate yourself on a job well done. Clean these pretties with disinfecting wipes when they need a spruce-up, and you're good.

CARRIED AWAY!

A workhorse bag in white? With another fabric, that could be asking for trouble. But when your carryall is made from laminate, you can wipe away your travel dust with a damp cloth—so your sense of style is good to go. Pattern: Simplicity 2274.

Right As Rain

Laminate is a no-brainer when it comes to hip wet-weather gear. You can turn the water-resistant textile into everything from slickers to hats to totes. And our huge selection of prints will make you want to pray for rain. Jacket and boot liners: McCall's 6517.
