

on the fence... What could make mosaics even easier to craft? Forgo the grout and grow a project that needs nothing more than glass pieces and tile glue. For this look, we painted bare wooden fence sections (available in the Craft Dept.) with white acrylic paint. Then we simply glued pre-packaged broken glass and a sprinkling of garden-worthy ceramic shapes directly to the pickets. Now you have the secret to what makes this beautiful garden grow.

Let your garden bloom with a bouquet of fun and easy-to-make mosaic projects. Craft everything from birdhouses to house numbers to a quirky picket fence—we've got all the tools, supplies and a dose of inspiration to get you started.

window whim... No need for grout on this picturesque pane. It's actually an off-the-shelf picture frame, with the back removed. We pieced together a tropical bloom using pre-cut tiles (clipped into triangle shapes with tile nippers). And we added interest to the center by adding pretty glass gems. Adhere all the tile pieces to the framed glass using tile glue.

"Mosaics make it Beautiful"

tile-happy tabletop

Recycle a bistro table—an easy garage sale find—into a stunning conversation piece for your outdoor space. We simply cut a piece of plywood to fit the top of the table to act as a base for our new mosaic design. We used pre-cut tiles and chose to stick to an overall geometric design to keep things simple. We also chose a stark white grout to give the finished piece a more artistic appearance.

for the birds

You're free as a bird when it comes to creating a quirky mosaic birdhouse. Just cover a bare wooden birdhouse (available in the Craft Dept.) with a rainbow of our handy pre-cut square tiles—you'll need acrylic paint, tile nippers, tile glue and grout to create the designs shown.
