burlap bath

We've turned basic burlap into boutique-worthy creations. From the window treatment to the shower curtain and the lamp to the hamper, everything in this bathroom got the burlap treatment.

- 1. STOOL: A thrift store find got a beautiful burlap upgrade that made it absolutely one of a kind. With basic sewing and upholstery skills, you can turn your own stool into a completely customized seat. Hint: When using zebra-print burlap ribbon, remove the wire before sewing.
- 2. LAMPSHADE: Turn a dull lampshade into a powder room focal piece with a burlap ribbon trio. First, cover the shade with exotic zebra-print burlap. Then add different colored ruffles along the sides. Simple yet stylish!
- 3. SHOWER CURTAIN: You won't find this wonderfully rustic shower curtain at any department store. It's 100 percent homemade—and 100 percent customizable. We first sewed together lengths of 12" natural burlap. Then we added blue burlap along the seams, using embroidery floss to gather, then machine stitching.
- 4. VALANCE: Embellish a homemade burlap window treatment with pre-made burlap roses for a pop of color for a charming rustic look. Tip: Since burlap is so stiff, you'll want to gather the ruffles by hand and then sew the pieces together.
- 5. LAUNDRY BASKET: We gave a woven wastebasket a creative redo with basic burlap—four different kinds, to be exact. And with the word laundry stenciled right on the front, now there's no excuse for leaving clothes on the floor.

office space The place where you get stuff done should have a calming, laid-back feel. And we know just how to achieve that. Natural burlap is an easy and inexpensive way to give your space an elegant, unexpected twist. From the burlap-covered bulletin board and the I-can't-believe-it's-burlap garland draped across it, to the DIY monograms and make-a-statement pillow, this room has just the right amount of rustic charm.

on board

This checkerboard-style burlap garland is easier to make than it looks. We simply wove black jute through a strip of burlap at 6" intervals, gently tugging it to gather it as we worked. We think it dresses up a burlap-embellished corkboard quite nicely.

⤴ monogram me Looking for a bit of nothing-to-it décor? Try covering canvas with our chevron-patterned burlap and then stenciling on a larger-than-life monogram. Change up the sizes of canvas for extra interest and dimension.

« soft spot To make this damask accent pillow, we first stenciled a design onto the burlap before cutting it to size. Then we added burlap ribbon that was frayed and knotted in between the layers to make the fringed trim. Tip: It's helpful to make a cover for the pillow form so you can't see through the burlap.

hello, burlap

Now that burlap is available in fun colors (like mustard yellow and turquoise blue) and exciting patterns (such as animal print and chevron), it's become an even more versatile textile. Try your hand at a très-chic burlap wreath or burlap-wrapped vases and bottles.

WARNING: Never leave a burning candle unattended. Burn on heat-resistant surface. Keep wick trimmed to 1/4" and keep candle out of drafts to avoid smoking.
