trippy banks

To create a personalized bank, transform a glass block with everything from stickers, to ribbon, to feathers, to flowers. Counting minutes instead of coins? Make a designer timepiece by incorporating a simple clock movement. Just drill a small hole thru block to accommodate the mechanism.

naturally... Let nature take its course on a bevy of botanically-inspired projects. The pieces shown make beautiful use of calla lily stems, decorative rocks, even scrapbooking supplies. We used items from both the model and miniature departments to round out our rustic, glass block displays—notice the tiny garden tools with a picket fence, the pocket-sized deer and bottle brush tree!

fetching etching

This contemporary piece was made using glass etching cream, available in crafts. Simply affix stencil of your choice to the glass, and carefully follow the manufacturer's directions to apply the cream and create the etching. Then, add squares of textured paper to complete the simple-but-chic design.

office space... Whether your office is at home or work, our versatile glass blocks will adapt to your one-of-a-kind décor. Use them as unique lighting by filling blocks with mini lights to provide the illumination, or keep it functional by creating a sleek organization area by applying magnet paint, chalkboard paint, cork, and dry erase film to four different blocks.
